#1 Don't Pay IRS Penalties

The IRS has over 148 different types of penalties they can hit you with. And the worst part is that the IRS can also charge interest an additional penalty on the original penalty.

Penalties can be such a high percentage of the total amount owed to the IRS, it usually makes sense to consider requesting the IRS to reduce all penalties to ZERO before you pay the IRS the IRS, but if you have already paid the bill, it can't hurt to ask for a penalty abatement and refund.

IRS penalties can often be reduced to ZERO if you have REASONABLE CAUSE. What makes up REASONABLE CAUSE you ask? Well, in our experience in negotiations with the IRS, anything may qualify if it's reasonable.

We've had the IRS abate penalties for medical reasons, bad accountants or tax preparers, ignorance of the tax laws, ex-spouses, helping to provide care for loved one, military call-ups, fires, floods, alcoholism, drug abuse, death and even for relying on IRS advice.

#2 File All Legally Required Tax Returns on Time

Many people do not realize that the IRS charges a penalty up to 25% just for filing your tax return late. That's right, you will get hit with an additional 25% of what you owe if you miss the deadline for filing individual tax returns, payroll tax returns or corporate tax returns.

We see so many people who could save THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS on penalties if they just knew this one thing. So, in the future no matter what is going on in your life, file all tax returns on time even if you don't send in the money owed with the return.

Yes, of course you will get an ugly letter from the IRS for not sending in the money owed but, so what, you will have avoided a 25% penalty.

“What most people don't know is that you can file ANY tax return on time and AVOID the 25% penalty even if you don't end in the money that is owed on the return”

#3 You Don't Have to Live in Fear of the IRS

Knowing your taxpayer rights gives you leverage when resolving your IRS problems. Instead of feeling powerless when you are up against potentially crushing back taxes and IRS penalties, knowing your rights as a taxpayer or having a qualified and experienced tax attorney or certified Tax Resolution expert on your side is the best way to understand all the options available to you for permanently solving your tax troubles.

#4 You Don't Have to Talk to the IRS Auditor

As a matter of fact, going or talking to the auditor yourself is the worst thing you can do.

The taxpayer Bill of Rights allows you to be represented by a qualified practitioner who can answer questions for you and provide documentation to the IRS. Many taxpayers attempt to handle their own audit or hire the person who prepare the tax return to handle it for them. The reason is usually does not work out is because most tax return preparers do not handle IRS audits daily. The IRS can easily intimidate them, which usually results in an unfavorable outcome.

#5 You Can Beat the Odds When Facing an IRS Audit

When it comes to tax audit, the IRS wins 80% of the time. Taxpayers are deemed guilty until proven innocent, which means the IRS can start an audit by disallowing every deduction you take on a return until each one is proven to be legitimate. If a taxing authority has decided to audit you, it is important that you don't let yourself be pushed around by the IRS. Additionally, if you don't file your taxes, the IRS may file them for you.

Legal representation for audits vastly improves your chances for successful tax resolution. As the proverb states, "he who is his own lawyer has a fool for a client." Treat an IRS audit as seriously as you would a murder trial. Would you go to court without a lawyer?

#6 IRS Audits Can Be resolved Swiftly

The best way to end an IRS with a great outcome is to end it at the first meeting.

Whenever our firm represents clients in IRS audits, we perform a trial audit before we ever meet with the IRS. This allows us to know which areas need more documentation or answers. When we meet with the IRS (without our client), we can quickly answer the auditor's questions, provide documents, and get to the bottom line. We always meet the IRS at their office or at our office, but never at the clients' office.

And if you receive an IRS audit letter in the mail asking you to come in or to call for an appointment, keep in mind Tax Relief secret #4: You Don't have to Talk to the IRS Auditor.

#7 The IRS Cuts Deals

The IRS does make deals on taxes owed, including all penalties and interests. The requirements are rigid, but if you qualify the results are incredible. To qualify for a deal with the IRS, I would suggest that you owe the IRS at least $20,000 and have very little in the way of equity in assets. Also, you must be using your monthly income to pay your necessary living expenses and not have much or only a small amount left over to pay old taxes.

The IRS cuts these deals to get you back in the system as a current taxpayer and to collect a few bucks on the old taxes owed. The fine print in these deals requires you to file your tax returns and pay on time for the next 5 years. If you don't, then the IRS revokes the deal and bills you for the original amount.
